

Call for Manuscripts

The Professional Educator

The Professional Educator is a peer-reviewed nationally disseminated, electronic journal published jointly by Auburn University's Truman Pierce Institute and the College of Education. The editors are currently soliciting articles written by researchers, practitioners, policymakers, graduate students, and others interested in promoting scholarly dialogue about effective educational partnerships making a positive impact on student learning, teacher and administrator working conditions, the preparation of teachers or other educational leaders, and the policies and practices influencing educational partnerships.

To read articles from current and past issues, and for further information about submission guidelines, visit The Professional Educator at www.theprofessionaleducator.org.